

ASD & ATTACHMENT - HALF DAY WORKSHOP

www.mindful.org.au/Autism-Training

Who is the training for?

Mental Health Clinicians and other professionals such as psychologists, social workers, speech pathologists, occupational therapists, paediatricians, psychiatrists and registrars, working with children and young people with ASD.

A limited number of subsidised places are available for Victorian CAMHS/CYMHS clinicians.

Who provides the training?

Dr Jennifer Harrison is consultant psychiatrist for the Alfred Child and Youth Service's Neurodevelopmental Stream. Her role includes work with the Developmental Assessment and Management Program, the Neuropsychiatry Clinic and the new Mental Health in Intellectual Disability Initiative-Youth (MHIDI-Y), an outpatient mental health service for youth with intellectual disability aged 12 to 25 years. Jennifer holds honorary appointments at the University of Melbourne and Monash University as well as at the Dax Centre, University of Melbourne, where she founded and manages The Dax Poetry Collection.

What does the training include?

This workshop will look at attachment theory, and current knowledge about attachment in children and youth with autism spectrum disorders. Assessment and treatment using attachment models will be addressed as well as an overview of the Parent Development Interview, a research tool that assesses parental reflective function.

Key learning objectives

- What is attachment?
- Why is it important?
- What is the difference between an attachment disorder and insecure attachment?
- What do we know about autism spectrum disorder and attachment?
- How can we support parent-child attachment when a child has autism spectrum disorder
